MARKET DULL AND NARROW

Amalgamated Sells Ex-Dividend, but Trading in It Narrow as Compared with Past Few Days—Money Working Easier the World Over.

(By I. N. Kinsey)
GLOBE, April 25.—Walker Brothers of New York say: Market today opened fairly steady and then sold off. During the middle of the day the market was inactive and mostly in traders' hands. Before the close prices braced up and closed at about the best. We look for a rather dull market for the rest of the week.

Paine of Boston says: Market today opened quiet and continued quiet and featureless throughout the day. Amalgamated sold ex-dividend of $2 quarterly and trading in it was narrow compared with past few days. Money is working easy the world over now and after this period of dullness we should have a higher market, as stocks will be pretty well digested and in stronger hands than for some time. We still favor purchases on breaks.

Subscriptions for the Cananea-Arizona, detailed mention of which is made elsewhere in this paper, can be made at my office in the Dominion hotel, beginning Saturday morning. Only 100,000 shares at $1 will be issued and judging from the strong financial backing that the company has in Duluth, Chicago and New York, as well as the favorable location of the property, the stock will be a good trade.

(By H. H. Bru)

GLOBE, April 25.—The stock market continues very quiet and very little trading is in evidence. Amalgamated quoted less dividend held around $94 and looks strong. Old Dominion opened at $54.12, but closed $53.50 bid and $53.75 asked. With the present showing of the Old Dominion this certainly is a snap of a buy.

Copper selling around 25½ cents with as promising a market should make all copper stocks strong and advance in price. Railroad stocks and bonds are also due to a substantial rise and with the present business in sight for railroads their earnings should be enough to be an attraction to the investing public, even after all that has been said about watered securities.

RANGERS STOP STEER TYING

Content at Bisbee Last Sunday Stopped by Ranger Captain Because of New Law Passed—First Time That Law Has Been Enforced in Arizona.

With the action taken by Ranger Captain Harry Wheeler yesterday at Don Luis in preventing an exhibition in which steers were to have been roped and tied, and "Nigger" Pickett was billed to throw a steer with his teeth, the end of cruelty to animals in Arizona, whether in an exhibition or otherwise, was marked, the last and most thrilling of wild west feats has received a quietus and the only vestige now left of life on the plains remains in the simple and monotonous stunt of the cow-puncher who may continue to mount the hurricane deck of the untamed broncho and be jolted to his heart's content, says the Bisbee Review.

The Twenty-fourth legislature said that cruelty to animals in the guise of feats of skill and exhibitions must stop; Captain Harry Wheeler seconded the enactment of the law and so far as is known Sunday, April 13, was the first time in the history of this territory that cowboy sport was peremptorily called to a halt under threat of imprisonment. For the past three weeks O. C. Nations and Clay McGonigle, both famous throughout the west as steer tiera and broncho busters, have been conducting weekly exhibitions of their ability, and as a side line "Nigger" Pickett of Texas, a black cowboy, has been throwing a steer by catching the animal's lip between his teeth after mounting the running steer from the back of a fleet pony, and throwing the beast. To the world this has proven a most interesting feat and crowds have gathered expressly to see this part of the performance. There will be no more of it wherever there is an Arizona ranger, or, for that matter, any other officer of the law who is conversant with the latest statute covering this feature of exhibitions.

Sunday's was the second exhibition scheduled to be conducted for the edification of the Bisbee public, the first having been conducted without interruption. The management of the affair offered no resistance to the orders of the officer of the law, but substituted instead of the steer tying and the "Nigger" steer contest, a whole lot of rough riding which seemed to catch the crowd and serve to appease them.

The officers would not even permit the riders to throw a rope about the cattle that they had secured for the occasion, but owing to the foresight of the management a large number of unbroken bronchos were on hand and the exhibition that followed was sufficient to satisfy the crowd that had gathered.
